Dear Mr. Tobias,

On August 17, 2018 you filed a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request with the U.S. Department of the Interior, Office of the Solicitor. In your request, you specifically ask for:

“Any and all written or electronic communications, including attachments, between Office of the solicitor official Joshua Campbell and any agent, representative or employee of the National Rifle Association or its subsidiaries. This request seeks documents produced between August 1, 2017 and the date this request is processed.”

In response to your letter, the Office of the Solicitor searched its records and found 61 pages responsive to your request. Upon review, the Office of the Solicitor has decided to release 53 pages to you in full and 8 pages to you in part. Pages are being released in part pursuant to Exemption 6 personal privacy interests. Please see the documents attached.

Exemption 6 allows an agency to withhold “personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.” 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6).

The phrase “similar files” covers any agency records containing information about a particular individual that can be identified as applying to that individual. To determine whether releasing records containing information about a particular individual would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, we are required to balance the privacy interest that would be affected by disclosure against any public interest in the information.

Under the FOIA, the only relevant public interest to consider under the exemption is the extent to which the information sought would shed light on an agency’s performance of its statutory duties or otherwise let citizens ‘know what their government is up to. The burden is on the requester to establish that disclosure would serve the public interest. When the privacy interest at stake and the public interest in disclosure have been determined, the two competing interests must be weighed against one another to determine which is the greater result of disclosure: the harm to personal privacy or the benefit to the public. The purposes for which the request for information is made do not impact this balancing test, as a release of information requested under the FOIA constitutes a release to the general public.

The information that has been withheld under Exemption 6 consists of personal mobile phone numbers, and we have determined that the individuals to whom this information pertain have a substantial privacy interest in withholding it.

This concludes the Office of the Solicitor's response to your request. The fee incurred in responding to your request is less than $50 and is not being charged in accordance with 43 CFR 2.16(b)(2).

If you consider this response to be a denial of your request, you may appeal this response to the Department's FOIA Appeals Officer. If you choose to appeal, the FOIA Appeals Officer must receive your FOIA appeal no later than 90 workdays from the date of this letter. Appeals arriving or delivered after 5 p.m. Eastern Time, Monday through Friday, will be deemed received on the next workday. Your appeal must be in writing and addressed to:
